

Tessa - The situation seemed nearly hopeless, but the police had a lead.

Can you remember anything about what they looked like? Even the smallest details are important. Maybe a partial plate number?

There's nothing to remember. They all had masks on. That's it!

Your wife isn't the first, but she can be the last.

Since January, we've been following several strange abductions by an organization called The Horror.

Out of all the abductions, only one person was returned safely. The wife of an industrialist. He paid the ransom and got her back.

We don't know much, but the abductions fit a pattern.

Then I'm going to do the same. I don't care how much they want.

Let me guess. Loved ones of the rich and famous?